

Frog Counts to Ten

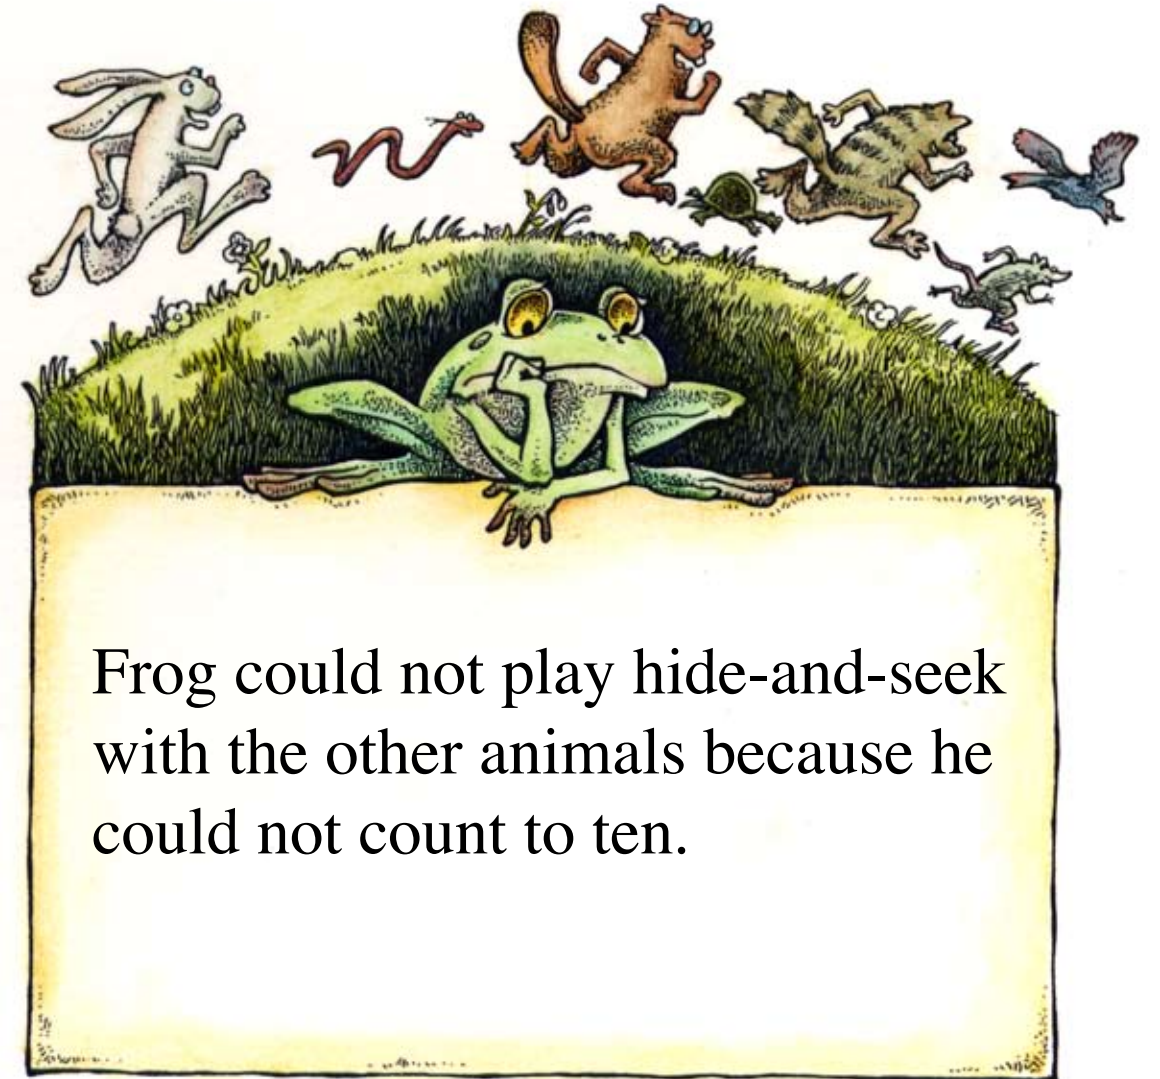

Written and illustrated by John Liebler

Frog Counts to Ten

by John Liebler

Frog could not play hide-and-seek with the other animals because he could not count to ten.

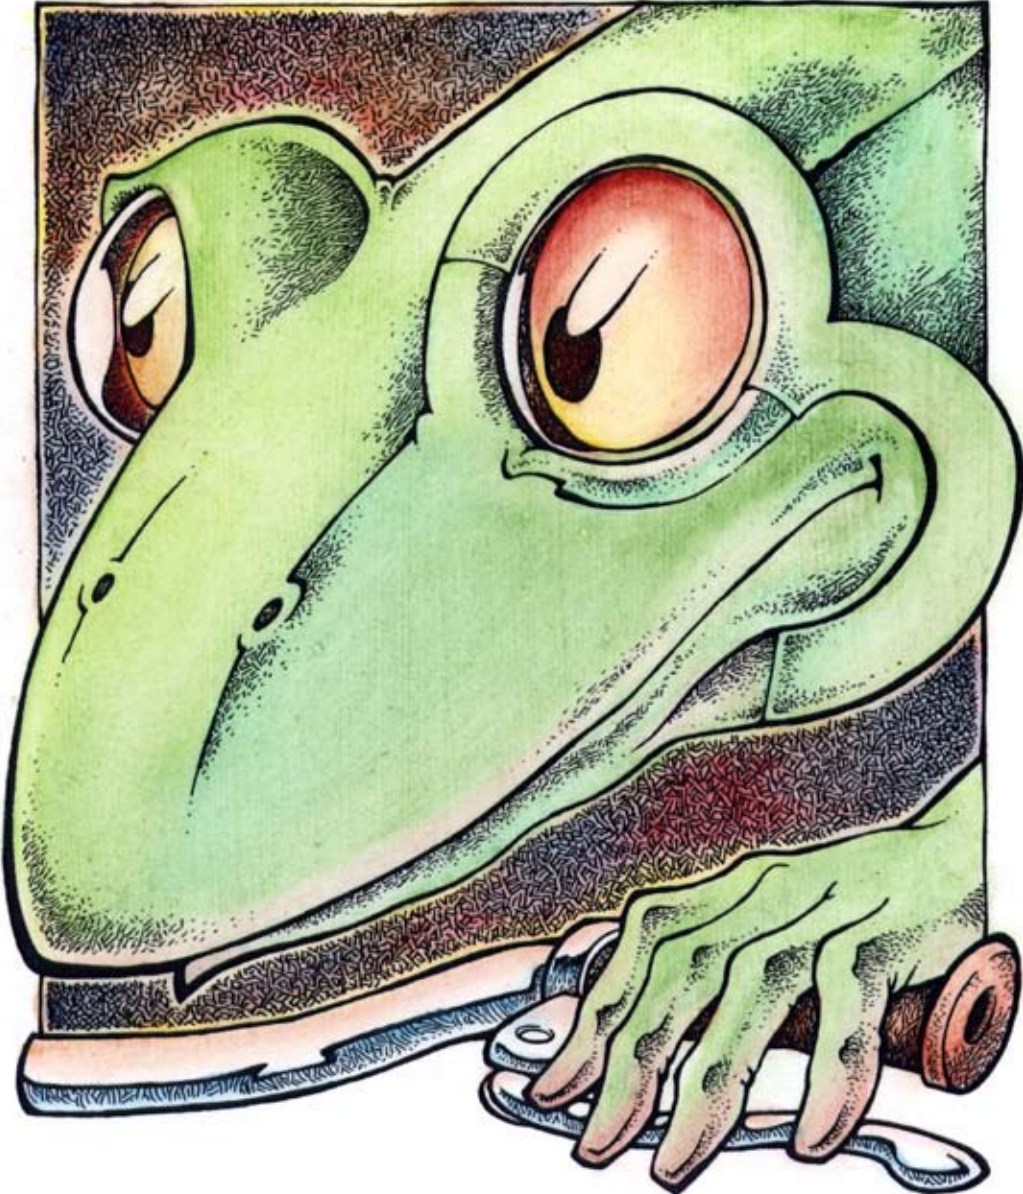

He was one lonely frog.

So he went for a ride on his two-wheeled bicycle.

He was coasting along at
three miles per hour,

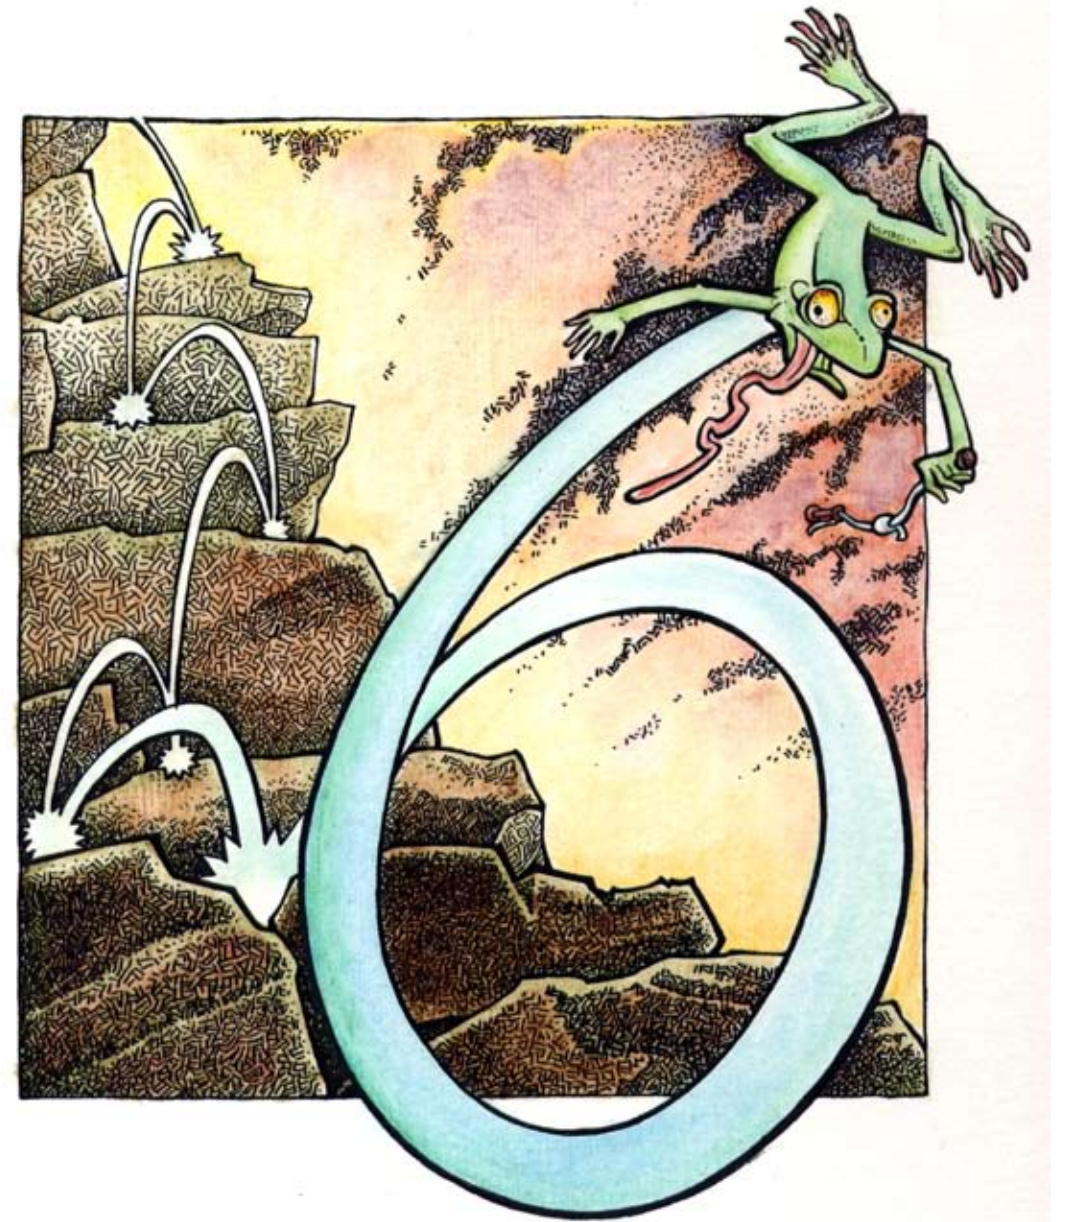

when he was distracted
by four flies...

... and accidentally rode off a five-foot drop.

He bounced six time on the way down and landed on his head.

He saw seven stars...

...and eight doctors.

The doctors gave him nine bandages...

... and a bill for ten dollars.

That night, Frog couldn't sleep,
so he thought about the day he'd had.
He thought about:

- how he'd been one lonely frog
- on a two-wheeled bicycle
- coasting at three miles per hour...

And then he realized...

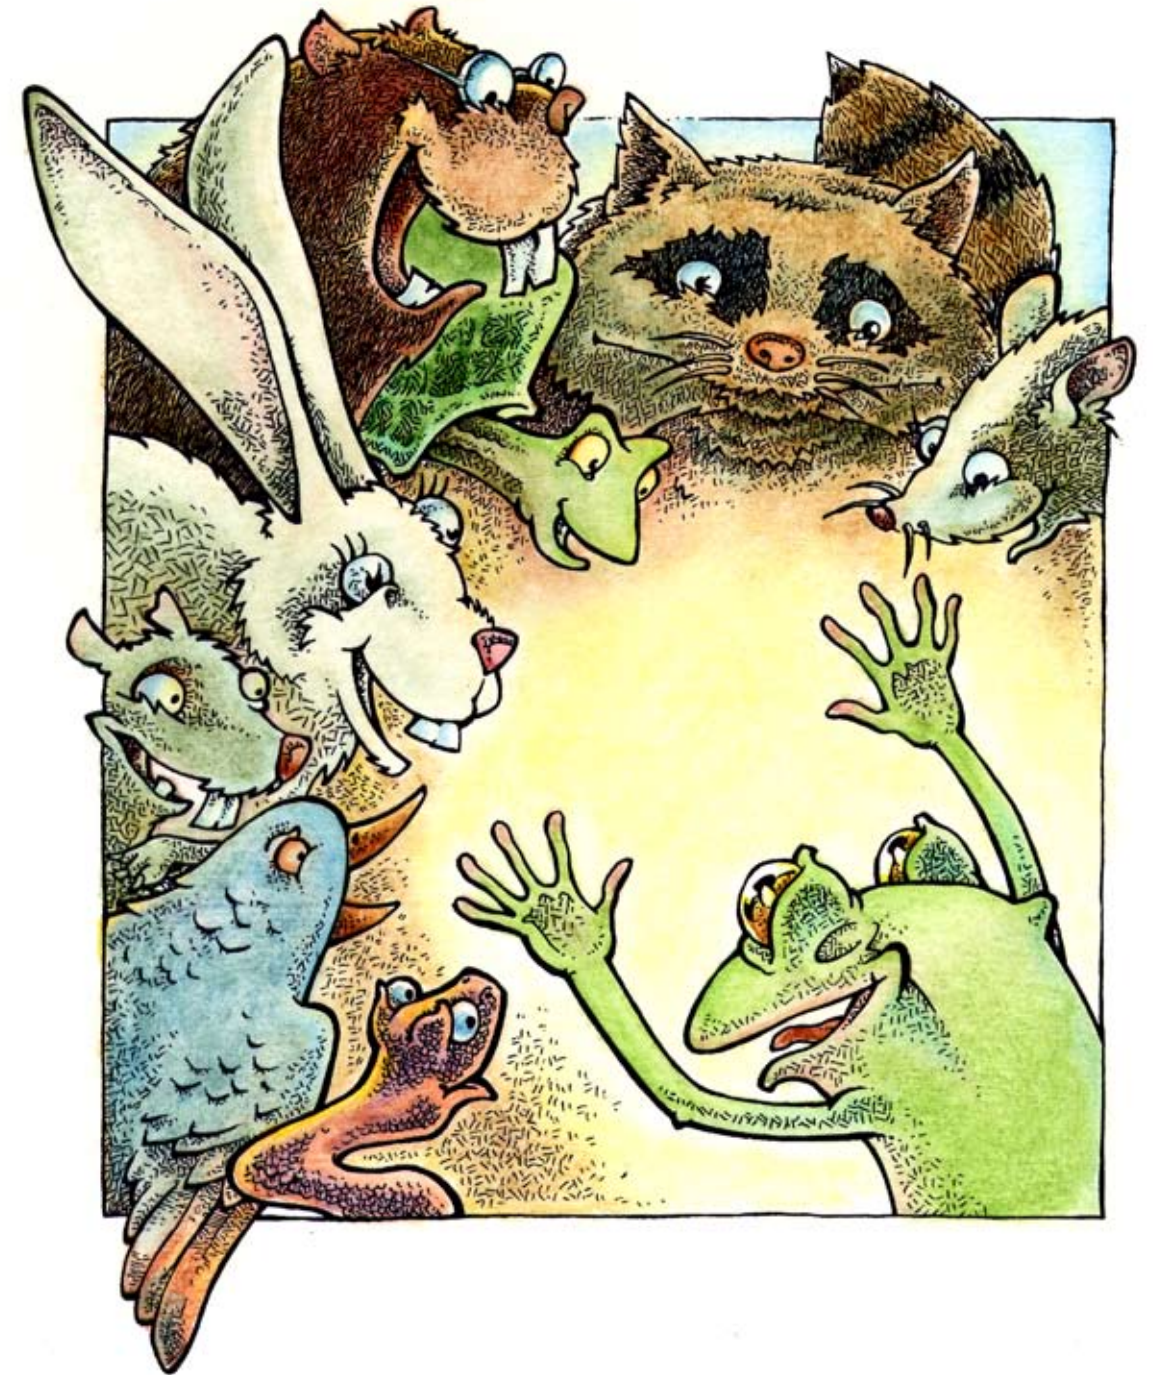

HE COULD COUNT TO TEN!

The next day, Frog told the other animals about his adventure and what he had learned. Then he announced:

“Now I can play hide-and-seek because I can count to ten!”

“1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10.
Ready or not, here I come!”

About the Author

John Liebler is a freelance artist who lives and works in Guilford, Connecticut. He believes everyone should be able to count.

“I learned to count at an early age,” says John, “and I hope to someday be able to count to a million – in dollars.”

When he’s not working, John, like Frog, enjoys riding his bicycle. Unlike Frog, however, he always wears a helmet, and rarely eats flies.

More stuff

John is very busy these days as a 3D artist. Check out his most recent works at:

www.MeshAndBones.com

Frog says,
“Happy counting!”